Next E-Club Meeting

Wednesday December 20th 2017

7.30pm (NSW time)

As usual I am starting off this newsletter with an apology, as it has been sometime since I have managed create one for you all. Life just gets away from me sometimes, however, I know you are no different to me and have busy lives, so I'm sure you understand. I am hopeful of being better next year. One of my New Year's Resolutions (I do have a few, that way I might success with one). After June 30, 2018, thing will improve.

Firstly:

Meeting tomorrow night, I will send the link out at about 4pm, all you have to do is click on the link. Once you have opened this link, you will need to check your sound is working and the camera is on. I will open the link around 6.45pm for everyone to sign on and be ready for a 7.30pm sharp start. (NSW time)

John may even have some Christmas quiz questions????? (Maybe)

The meeting will start at 7.30 sharp and will finished within the hour. We have an induction and it would be nice if everyone could be online to welcome our new member.

As stated this will be a short meeting, with fellowship being the priority, with finish time before 8.30pm

Enjoy your Aussie Christmas, with family and friends and keep cool, it looks like it could be a hot one. I'm off the Geelong to stay with our daughter, Heidi, in her new home of two weeks, and the new swimming pool. Apparently, after Christmas Day, the plan is to sit by the pool, with a good drink of whatever, me a G & T, and whoever turns up can just join in. The other good news is, Telstra can't possibly connect the internet until middle of January. (Sometimes, it works in our favour!)

I cannot finish this newsletter without mentioning the true meaning of Christmas and the reason we celebrate. It is a time to celebrate the birth of a special baby who was born to teach us about love, caring and humanity.

Please take the time to let you family and friends know how much they are valued and also reflect on our interest in humanity service for those who have so little.

Merry Christmas, take care and have a safe, happy and holy Christmas. See you tomorrow night.
